

Vacancy Mobile Developer (iOS, Android)

Vacancy

We are asked to recruit a Mobile Developer (iOS, Android) for one of our clients on a permanent base:

Are you the passionate mobile developer who can join our clients team in the quickly evolving world of mobility and wearables? You have coding skills and aim for the highest possible user experience! Your products will be available in the Appstore of Apple and/ or Android.

We have fast growing online solutions with end-users in accounting, manufacturing and distribution for small business and their accountants. You make it possible that our international clients have a state to the art solutions to manage their business and conduct powerful analysis at any place, any time and with any device.

The mobile solutions are one of the most important aspects in our proposition portfolio. You will be part of an international and highly motivated mobile team in endeavouring to provide for the best possible experience.

Job responsibilities

Your job responsibilities as a mobile developer

- Take charge and ownership for delivering the best
- Build great features for iOS and Android (native or hybrid)
- Work closely with product management, designers and users
- Rapidly recognise and solve issues pro-actively
- Always look for the latest trends and always consider the best platforms to deliver on the user value
- Share your knowledge with your co-workers. Inspire your team!

Qualifications

What makes you our clients most interesting mobile developer?

- You a bachelor's degree in computer science (or equivalent level)
- You have experience in all aspects of mobile development (either in the App Store or at Google Play)
- You have outstanding skills in one of our mobile platforms, reflect on native, hybrid or mobile web constantly. And your have the basics to be a full stack developer. The .NET platform must be a place you call home.

Vacancy Mobile Developer (iOS, Android)

- You have an inventive mind-set that interprets into inspirational features
- You have a passion for providing in great apps (both technical and in design)
- You are proficient in English, both verbally and in writing

Job Offer

What can you expect?

- You will receive a competitive salary based on a 40 hour work week, dependent on your level of education and work experience.
- You are contracted for one year, but you are hired to stay.
- You will work in a striving and global organisation.

Interested?

Please send an email to Josanne@prophia.nl with enclosed your resume, when you have taken an interest in this vacancy.